SHRI KAPIL SIBAL LAUNCHES EDCIL WEBSITE*New Delhi: January 7, 2010

Shri Kapil Sibal, Union Minister for Human Resource Development, today launched the EdCIL website. EdCIL has developed a new interactive website with dynamic features such as discussion forum, online feedback, blogs, e-procurement, online receipt of application for developing the consultant's databank and teacher's databank. EdCIL (India) Limited, a Government of India Enterprise under MHRD is engaged in propagation of Indian education abroad facilitating placement of foreign students, NRIs, PIOs in Indian Institutions and other consultancy services relating to education and human resource in India and internationally.

This Website also provides links to associated institutes of the company for direct access of the students. Interactive features have been incorporated in the website. It also contains pages about the service spectrum of the company to provide online insight to the user about the activities of the company such as student placement, secondment services, technical assistance, institutional development, technical support group, testing-recruitment & assessment services, and training & management procurement services. Each department's page includes the range of services offered, position of projects and client details.
